

EARLY AUTUMN GOWN.

Gray is still in high favor and will continue to be one of milady's darling shades through all the coming winter. This fine grey cloth gown is lavishly tucked and trimmed with gray silk embroidery. The velvet bow and belt give the necessary note of black. The front is of white and black chiffon.

There's little that's truly exciting.
You see, for my pen to set down;
It's merely a line that I'm writing
To 48k when you're coming to town.
The leaves in the Park have turned yellow.

le summer is over with, Prue;
time you came home to a fellow ho's waiting and longing for you.

Henry Talcott Mills.

Society is not yet all here, and no homes will be thrown open with formal entertainments until Friday, September 28, when the Jacob W. Grubb residence at Echo Point will be the scene of the curtain raising on what promises to be the most brilliant season in Wheeling society for many years. The week now ending witnessed among many calls, society en masse at the races and bench show, and the gowning and all accoutrements eclipsed anything seen in this city; the meeting preliminary to the reorganization of the Married La-Euchre, the last Casino dance of the summer season, and the first autumn tea at the Wheeling Golf club house at the Woodsdale links. The interesting topics of club and drawing room conversations were the publishing in Wheeling of a blue book, now recognized in all metropolitan cities as the directory and family register of society; the visit of the stork at Leatherwood the challenge sent to the Wheeling Golf Club by the Washington club for a game at the latter place, Saturday, September 29, and the publication of "Louise," a novel written by Cora Updegraff Nocks, a clever Wheeling girl, married in Louisville, Ky.

The Married Ladies' Euchre organization of last senson met Wednesday for the coming winter card tournament. The invitation list will comprise sever al new members, to be notified before the first entertainment, which is booked for Friday, September 28, at the Ja cob W. Grubb home, at Echo Point,

The tea and contest at the Woodsdale links by the Wheeling club afforded a delightful party last Saturday after noon, and the members and invited guests made a gay assemblage. The prize-winners were Mr. Charles F. Paxton and Mrs. Dorsey, of Baltimore, for merly Miss Nell Lukens, of the Island.

Miss Rivalton-Isn't it funny has those odd Oriental ideas find disciples Trotter-Why, what do you mean? Miss Rivalton-Really, haven't you ever seen Maud Wayuppe play golf?

The interesting topic in golf circles is the Washington (Pa.) golf club challenge to the Wheeling club for a game Washington, Saturday, September 29, which has been accepted with the understanding that a return game will be played at the Wheeling club links at Woodsdale, two weeks later. Six gentlemen, comprising the team, will go and friends of the players will accom pany them, assuring an enthusiastic gallery for the Wheeling club. The anticipation of the return game here will be of the keenest interest.

Wheeling society has in talk "Louise," a new novel written by a former in its domain, Miss Corn Updegraff, now Mrs. Nocks, wife of General Nocks, of Louisville. Mrs. Nocks is the daughter of Mrs. Updegraff, of Twelfth street, a graduate of Mt. de Chantal. and, a most brilliant and clever wo man, whose work along any line will be entertaining. Since her residence in Louisville, Mrs. Nocks has been renentedly elected secretary of the Dolly Madison Chapter, of the Daughters of the American Revolution, a position of great prominence.

Wheeling has received with delight the intimation of the publication of the Blue Book in Wheeling, embracing this city and adjacent towns allied with it by family ties and socially. This book will be published by the Kelly Publishing Company, of Pittsburgh, and will include the prominent families, together with a list of the church societies, clubs, etc., that enter into the social life of this city, making an elite directory and family register, valuable in social life and duties, an aid in philanthropic work, as well as a convenience to business and professional men. The beginning of the work will be undertaken about the first of October and its success can be assured, not because a novelty, but as it will be recognized on consideration a necessity in this rapidly growing community.

The library committee of the City hospital again solicits the sending of books and magazines to that institution for the benefit of the convalescents now there. Reading matter has been at a low ebb for some time. Any gifts in this direction will be much appreciated.

Preparations are on for the Rummage Sale to be held in October for the benefit of the King's Daughters' Nursery, on South Market street. All house holders are asked to keep this sale in Miss Laura Crangle Dalzell, of North Chapline street, returned Thursday, from Sistersville, where she had been honor of the Porterfield-Rame wedding, officiating as bridesmaid. The marriage was celebrated Wednesday evening at St. Paul's P. E. church, with more than usual eclat. The bride and groom's gifts to the attendants were enamel broaches with pearls, and stick-pins of bow-knot design, set with pearls.

The many friends of the Andrew H. Patterson family, formerly of this city, regret to hear of Mr. Patterson's Illess at Havana, reports stating it to be yellow fever, and hope for a speedy recovery. Mr. Patterson's daughters. Misses Mamie, Hollie, Bessle and Elea nor, are at present visiting at Monument Place, Elm Grove,

The executive committee of the Woman's Musical Club meets Tuesday morning, to finally arrange all plans for the season's opening, which is scheduled for Friday, September 28, Membership will be only by invitation issued through the accomized channels.

The Casino dance, given at Wheeling Park last evening, to the Married People's, Cotillion and Junior sets, was brilliantly attended, Meister's orches tra played an inspiring dance programme and all appointments reflected credit on Prof. George M. Delbrugge, under whose auspices the affair was arranged. This closes the senson of summer dances so much enjoyed by older and younger society. The fall term of the dancing classes for all sets will begin the first week in October, the meetings to be held at Arion hall, after which the regular bi-weekly cotillions will again be the order.

Quite a unique social gathering was that at the residence of Mr. Frank C. Swift, 117 Fourteenth street, last even-ing, in honor of Mr. Charles E. Stevens, formerly of this city, now of Washing-C., who is visiting relatives and calling on old friends, after an absence about among his numerous friends and companions of the "old crowd" that they would all meet at Mr. Swift's residence and tender him a surprise. It is not necessary to say that a good time was had. The many recollections that ment. A feast of good things was enjoyed and to say that the hostess, Mrs. Swift, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Van Keuren, served a dainty repast enjoyed by all, is a mild expression. The following who were present, are but a few of the "old crowd" who could at-tend on short notice: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Swift, Mt. and Mrs. Charles E. Van Keuren, Mr. and Mrs. George Neuman, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Merkle, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Jeffers, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Bodley, Mr. and Mrs. Millard F. Glesey, Mr. and Mrs. William H. ### WHEELING IS PROUD

Of the Work of Photographer J. E. Giffin, Whose Prize Winning Picture is Reproducd in the Intelligencer To-day.

Wheeling thoroughly recognizes and appreciates its position in the photographic art world given it by its felow citizen, Mr. J. E. Giffen, whose work is the admiration of all photohibited by you at our recent convention. I refer to the red chalk carbon centre piece of your exhibit.

Can you supply me with a copy and at what price? I would prefer aristo to platino print, but quote price for duplicate of red carbon, also. This is not to be for anything but my own use; that be for anything but my own use; that is to say, it would not be publicly ex-hibited either singly nor as one of a hibited either singly nor as one of collection. An early reply will oblige

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Man From Mexico," a side-splitting comedy that will never wear out, was presented to a fair-sized audience at the Opera House last night George C. Boniface, ir., succeeds Willie Collier in the star role, and he does not suffer by comparison with that eminent comedian. The supporting company was made up of good people with-out exception, and the audience voted the entertainment glit-edged.

Braunig Dramatic Company.

The Braunig Dramatic Company how The Braunig Dramatic Company has Gelighted large audiences all week at the Grand Opera House, fairly earning the distinction of being the best repertoire company which has ever appeared in this city. No other organization has presented such competent actors and actresses, end very few have attempted seenic productions of such hig class melodramas. Two more performances will conclude the week's engagement. There has been a heavy gagement. There has been a heavy dyance sale of seats for the matinee and it goes without saying that "Lights and Shadows" will necessitate the use of the "Standing Room Only" sign tonight.

New Publications.

"The Courtesy Dame," by Murray Glichrist, is a story by an English author who is new to the American public, but who is fortunate in being introduced out who is fortunate in being introduced to it by so clever a story. It deals with English aristocratic life, and mirrors accurately certain phases of British character and conditions not usually met in the novels of to-day. There is a love story running through the tale, admirably managed and conceived. The story is declicated to Elect Byllest, the story is dedicated to Eden Philpott, the author of "Children of the Mist." Dodd, Mead & Co., New York: Frank Stanton, Wheeling.

"The Gateless Barrier" is by Lucas Malet, (Mrs. St. Leger Harrison, a daughter of Charles Kingsley). Her first work, "The Wages of Sin," was a powerful book, and achieved a notable success. This present book is regarded by those who have read it as her strongest work since "The Wages of Sin." The novel has an element of the supernatural in it, wonderfully conceived and cleverly executed.—Dodd, Mead & Co., New York; Frank Stanton, Wheeling.
